Arbitration has become the preferred method of dispute resolution for a wide range of commercial disputes.

The SIAC Academy Specialist Arbitration Series seeks to shine the spotlight on the different areas of arbitration disputes, the major stakeholders, contractual relationships, key legal principles and types of claims and defences that are typically brought in that area, as well as the issues and strategic considerations to take note of in each stage of the arbitration for that particular area of dispute.

In the second instalment of this series, we focus on Energy, Oil and Gas Arbitrations.
